

The difficult politics of work incentives

Juhana Vartiainen

1.3.2018

A most welcome intervention by the OECD

- I share the main conclusions
- A universal credit coupled with workfare and reciprocity is the way forward
- This is timely and relevant as the economy is rapidly approaching its supply side constraints.

Three points on the difficult politics of reform

- The difficult legacy of corporatism
- The controversial politics of labour supply
- The modern discourses on the end of work